Characteristics of the role of the reviewer of the International Journal of Cardiovascular Science

1. Journal reviewers will be selected by the journal's Editor-in-Chief, among professionals from Brazil or abroad. To obtain the reviewer status, the following criteria must be met:

- a) Be available to review at least 3 articles per year.
- b) Carry out reviews with high scientific and methodological quality.

The list of reviewers who collaborated in that period will be published at the end of each year.

The reviewers' duties are:

- a) Review articles from a scientific and methodological point of view, proposing modifications to authors and suggesting publication priority to Editors.
- b) Identify and suggest to the Editors potential conflicts of interest of the authors in the study.
- c) Be able to carry out reviews in Portuguese and English.

2. Prerequisites to occupy the position of reviewer:

- a) Prove completed graduation in the health field.
- b) Prove a completed master's or doctoral degree.
- c) Proven academic experience with publishing at least one article in a journal indexed in Pubmed or Scopus.
- d) Presentation of updated CV Lattes.
- e) Statement of interest and commitment to conduct up to 8 reviews annually.

3. Journal reviewers will report to the editor-in-chief.
